Dear Parents,

What a great week we had last week: Constructing the Community, celebrating Valentine’s and conferences. Thank you for all the hard work you put into the community project with your children. They were so proud of their buildings and did a wonderful job sharing. You can find pictures on the website. Conferences also went well and it is always so nice to show the students how we work as a team to help them be their best learners. I will not be sending home Book-in-a-Bag this week because it is a short week and we have an all-day field trip on Friday. We will start again next week. Please have them choose “just right” books from home this week to read. Thank you again for all you do to support your children as learners. I am so lucky to have each and every one of them in class. Have a great week!

Paula 😊
